

3

Formosa^{*}!

One Name, Two Stories

Mini-Challenge

Task 1: Introducing a Place

Task 2: Hosting a Travel Show

Thinking Ahead

1. Watch the video about the cities sharing the same names and then match the terms.

- Beverly Hills in California
 - It was named by the settlers there in 1889.
 - You can see many celebrities and scenes here in movies.
- Paris in Texas
 - It is a small city based on farming.
 - It has a miniature Eiffel Tower.
- Cardiff in Australia
 - Forty-seven cities in the US share this name.
- Lebanon
 - It was named by the settlers there in 1889.
 - You can see many celebrities and scenes here in movies.
- Glasgow in Montana
 - It is a small city based on farming.
 - It has a miniature Eiffel Tower.

2. Like Paris in France, Paris in Texas also has an “Eiffel Tower.” Look at the following two pictures. What’s the difference between them? What could possibly be the reason(s) for this difference?

The most obvious difference between them is.... It’s probably because....

Eiffel Tower in Paris, Texas

Eiffel Tower in Paris, France

Reading Selection

課文動畫 課文朗讀

Reading Strategy

• Review: Identifying Text Structure—Compare & Contrast

When we talk about two things or objects, “comparing and contrasting” is often used to note the similarities and differences between them.

Compare: When we discuss two things that have a lot in common but are not identical, we are “comparing” them. The second and third paragraphs of the following passage, for example, compare two different places.

Contrast: This shows how one thing has some features that the other does not, as the information in the fourth and the fifth paragraphs do.

“Comparing and contrasting,” therefore, helps readers clarify the similarities and differences that exist between two things.

1 “Formosa” is commonly known as an unofficial name for Taiwan. However, what many people don’t know is that there is another Formosa located on the banks of the Paraguay River in Argentina. Let’s take a 5 detailed look at these two namesakes and investigate¹ the aspects in which they are similar and those in which they differ².

Interestingly, it appears that both Formosas were unintentionally³ discovered by European explorers in 10 the sixteenth century. It is believed that a crew⁴ of Portuguese* sailors⁵ first came across Taiwan and named

Note the Details

1. What does the word “Formosa” mean if the word “Ilha” is “island” in Portuguese?

it “Ilha Formosa,” which means “beautiful island.” Similarly, Formosa was the European name given to an area of land discovered in South America by Spanish explorers around 15 the same time. These explorers considered the area they had found to possess such exceptional⁶ beauty that they decided to settle⁷ there.

Apart from their shared name and historical similarities, there is another interesting geographical phenomenon that 20 connects these two locations. Taiwan is located at 23° N and Argentina’s Formosa at 23° S, which means both areas are roughly the same distance from the equator. What’s more, they sit on the exact opposite side of the world

2. Which sentence in the passage explains that the two Formosas are on the exact opposite side of the world from each other?

from each other. If someone in northern Taiwan dug a 25 hole straight down into the Earth, penetrated⁸ its core⁹, and then continued digging to the surface on the other side, he or she would end up in Formosa, Argentina! Since most of the globe is covered in ocean, 30 it is even more amazing that these two bits of land are exactly antipodal!

Despite these two special links, the two Formosas are, in many ways, still worlds apart. Their natural landscapes, for a 35 start, differ considerably¹⁰. Two thirds of Taiwan's 36,000 square kilometers are made up of majestic¹¹ mountains covered in dense¹² forest, some of which soar¹³ thousands of meters above sea level. Furthermore, the

“

If someone in northern Taiwan
dug a hole straight
down into the Earth,
he or she would end
up in Formosa, Argentina! ”

40 island's mountains, valleys¹⁴, rivers, and reefs are home to hundreds of unique species found only in Taiwan. By contrast, most of Argentina's Formosa, which is two times the size of Taiwan, is fairly flat and covered with trees, grassland, or marshland.
Its eastern region receives more rain than its other 45 parts and also has more forests and streams¹⁵.

There is, in addition, a stark¹⁶ contrast between their economies. Present-day Taiwan is known worldwide for its lively¹⁷ economy and its advanced information technology industry. The Asian island is moreover famous for its natural beauty and friendly people, and thus attracts visitors from far and wide. By contrast, Formosa is one of Argentina's least developed areas. Its economy relies primarily on cattle¹⁸ raising and other agricultural¹⁹ activities, such as growing cotton and fruit. Ranching is also extremely important to Formosa's economy. The area's total number of cattle exceeds²⁰ 1.5 million, which is more than three times the number of people living there!

Whatever differences or similarities exist between the pair, thanks to those who explored the globe hundreds of years ago, people can now pay a visit to two "beautiful" lands. Both Argentina's Formosa, with its gorgeous²¹ green plains²² and lush²³ forests, and Taiwan, with its bustling²⁴ cities and mighty²⁵ mountainous²⁶ landscapes, are sure to

3. What is the biggest difference between the two Formosas in terms of economy?

70 impress visitors. Perhaps the people of these two lands on opposite sides of the world can even come face to face and get to know each other a little better one day as well! That could make for a beautiful friendship!

—Written by Mary Goodwin

Reading Strategy

• Review: Identifying Supporting Details

Supporting details follow a topic sentence to provide readers with more information to help them understand the idea of the topic sentence. These supporting details can be definitions, explanations, statistics*, facts, or examples. Mostly, these supporting details derive from an abstract idea to form a concrete example. That is, a definition or an explanation will come right after the topic sentence, and, if needed, an example or a case in real life will be used to prove its credibility.

Locate the topic sentences and supporting details in Paragraphs 2, 3, 4, and 5. Then check the statement(s) that describe the supporting details in each paragraph.

Paragraph	Statements describing its supporting details
2	<input type="checkbox"/> The author gives examples to show how the two Formosas are different. <input type="checkbox"/> The author uses historical facts to explain the topic sentence of this paragraph. <input type="checkbox"/> The second and third sentences of this paragraph are definitions.

Paragraph	Statements describing its supporting details
3	<input type="checkbox"/> The supporting details are about man-made phenomena. <input type="checkbox"/> The supporting details tell readers the geographical facts about the two places. <input type="checkbox"/> The supporting details only focus on the differences between the two places.
4	<input type="checkbox"/> All the sentences from the third sentence to the end of this paragraph give supporting details. <input type="checkbox"/> The supporting details in this paragraph are facts about the plants and weather patterns of the two Formosas. <input type="checkbox"/> The supporting details in this paragraph are about the different landscapes of the two Formosas.
5	<input type="checkbox"/> The second sentence tells readers a general fact about Taiwan's economy. <input type="checkbox"/> The third sentence gives further explanation of Taiwan's economic achievements. <input type="checkbox"/> The author gives examples to show the differences between Taiwan's economy and that of Formosa, Argentina.

Think and Reflect

1. There are two Daxis in Taiwan; one is in Taoyuan and the other in Yilan. Identify their similarities and differences.

Both of the Daxis are.... But the Daxi in Taoyuan is..., while the Daxi in Yilan is....

Think about...

its history
its products
its location
its land area

2. Is it a good or a bad thing to share a name with someone famous? Why or why not?

It is a good thing to share a name with someone famous because....

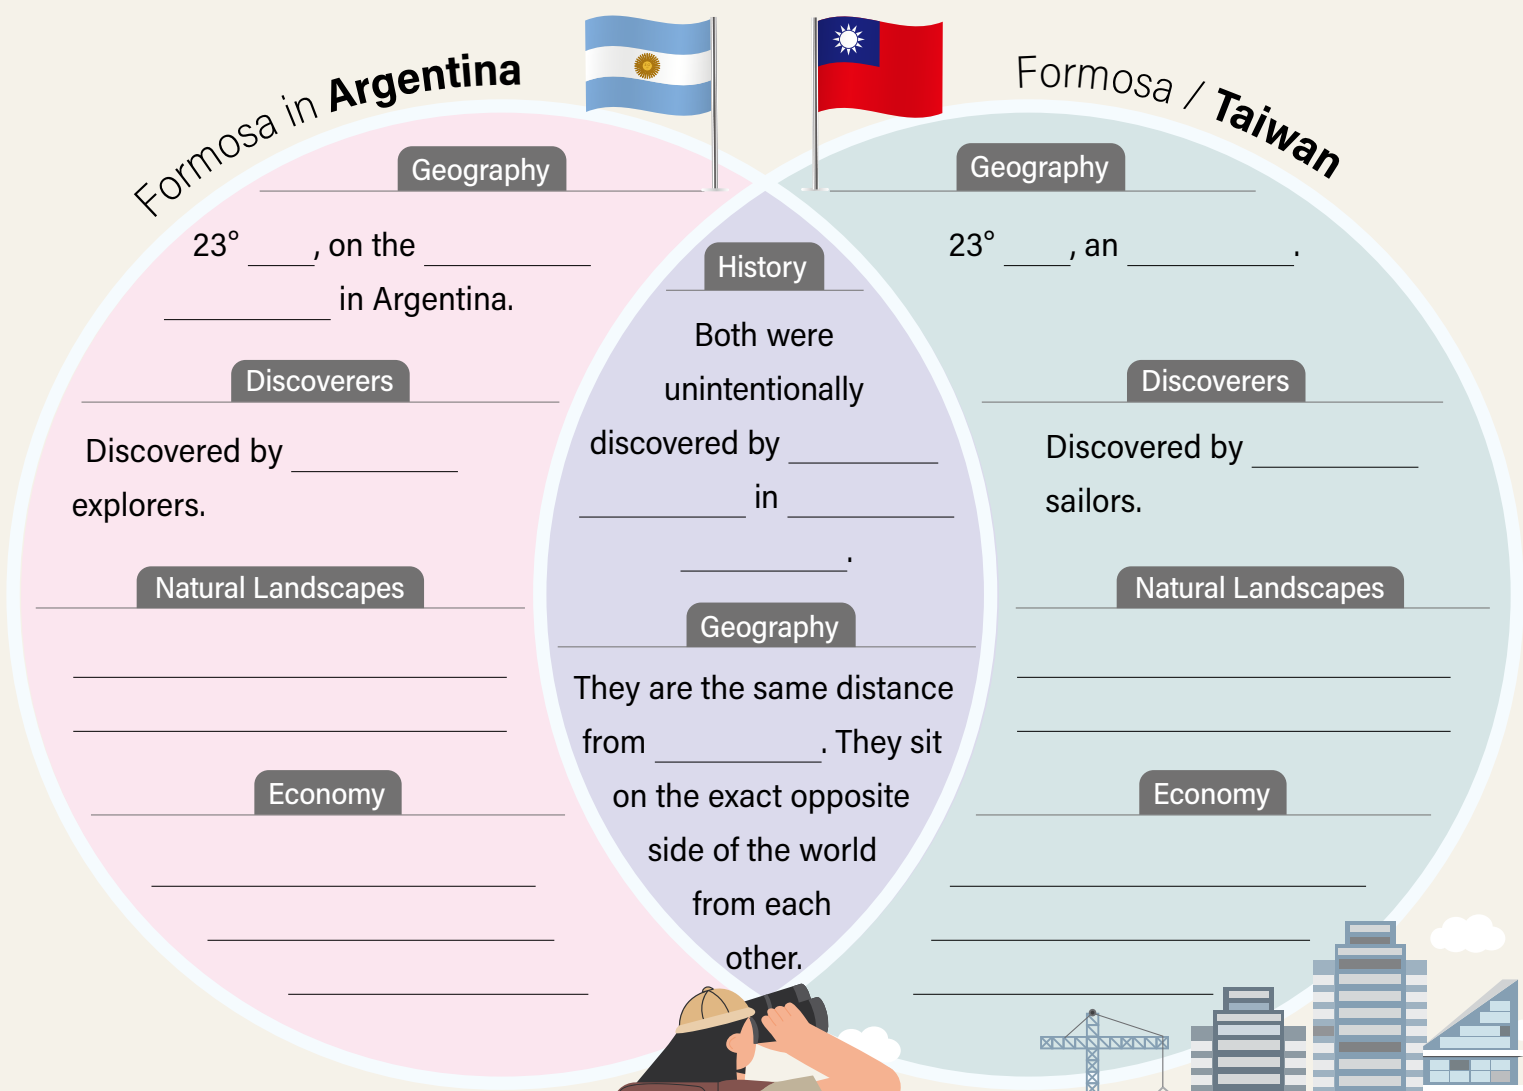

It is a bad thing to share a name with someone famous because....

Think about...

the benefits
the opportunities
the threats
the troubles

Graphic Organizer

A Venn Diagram uses overlapping* circles to show the relationships between two or more things. It is used to find the similarities and differences between two items. Compare and contrast the two Formosas in the passage using the Venn Diagram and locate their similarities and differences.

Word Bank overlap 重疊

Comprehension Practice

Practice A

Key Details

1. What do the two Formosas have in common?

- (A) They are both islands.
- (B) They are both located at 23° N.
- (C) They were both named by Spanish explorers.
- (D) They were both discovered by Europeans in the sixteenth century.

Key Details

2. Which of the following statements is NOT true?

- (A) Taiwan is home to hundreds of unique species.
- (B) Argentina's Formosa is two times bigger than Taiwan.
- (C) Argentina's Formosa relies greatly on information technology.
- (D) It was Portuguese sailors that first gave Taiwan the name "Formosa."

General Understanding

3. Which of the following magazines is the most likely source of this passage?

- (A) Baseball Youth.
- (B) Classical Music.
- (C) Pet Partners.
- (D) National Geographic.

Practice B

According to the passage, the population of Argentina's Formosa is less than _____.

Vocabulary & Phrases

字彙朗讀

Words for Production

1. investigate

[ɪnˈvestəˌgeɪt]

investigation

[ɪnˌvestəˈgeɪʃən]

▶ vt. vi. 調查；偵查 to carry out an inquiry into a situation to determine what happened

- The police continue to investigate the case of the stolen painting, which has not yet been found.
- From so far away we can't see the surface of Mars well, so people have sent robots to investigate.

▶ n. [C, U] 調查；偵查

- As the murder investigation entered its fifth week, the detectives were no closer to identifying the murderer.
- Several politicians are currently under investigation for the suspected theft of government funds for personal use.

2. differ

[ˈdɪfə]

differentiate

[ˌdɪfəˈrenʃiˌeɪt]

▶ vi. 相異；不同於 to be not the same as someone or something else

- Although they are sisters, Jamie differs from Tina in personality and appearance.

▶ vi. 不同意；持不同看法

- Some religious people differ with scientists over the age of the Earth.

▶ vi. vt. 區分；辨別

- Many people find it difficult to differentiate between crocodiles and alligators.
- Young children sometimes cannot differentiate fiction from reality, so they may believe movies and TV shows are true.

3. unintentionally

[ˌʌnɪnˈtɛnʃənli]

▶ adv. 無意中地；偶然地 not deliberately

- Carl unintentionally bumped into Rita, causing her to spill coffee on her shirt.

intend

[ɪnˈtend]

▶ vt. 想要；打算

- Currently, Ruth is working hard to save money because she intends to travel around Europe next year.

intention

[ɪnˈtɛnʃən]

▶ n. [C, U] 計畫；打算

- The mayor recently announced his intention to run for president in the next election.
- Mr. Smith pretends to be kind, but he actually has no intention of helping others.

intentional

[ɪnˈtɛnʃən]

▶ adj. 故意的；有意的

- Stacy simply forgot to invite Jim to her birthday party. It wasn't intentional.

4. crew

[kru]

▶ n. [C] (尤指飛機或船的) 全體工作人員 the workers on an airplane or a ship

- After the captain welcomed the passengers on board, members of the flight crew demonstrated the various safety procedures.

5. sailor

[ˈseɪlə]

▶ n. [C] 水手；海員 a crew member on a boat or ship

- As a young boy, Steven loved the ocean and dreamed of becoming a sailor one day.

sail

[seɪl]

▶ vi. (乘船) 航行

- In 2019, Greta Thunberg sailed across the Atlantic Ocean to attend climate change conferences in New York City.

sail

[seɪl]

▶ n. [C] 帆

- It was a calm day at sea, with no wind to fill the sails.

6. exceptional

[ɪkˈsepʃənl]

adj. 傑出的；優秀的 extremely good to a degree that is unusual or above average

- The child demonstrated an exceptional talent for music and will probably be a world-famous pianist one day.

adj. 特別的；罕見的

- Usually, Tim's parents don't let him eat chocolate, but under exceptional circumstances, he is sometimes allowed to.

exception

[ɪkˈsepʃən]

n. [U, C] 例外（的人、事、物）

- All passengers, without exception, must wear masks on the MRT during the COVID-19 pandemic.
- Guests normally have to check out before 11:00 a.m., but the hotel made an exception and let everyone stay till the storm had passed.

7. settle

[ˈsetl]

vi. vt.（尤指作為移民在某地）定居 to permanently move to a new place, especially a new country

- Frustrated at her country's political situation, Linda decided to settle in Spain.
- Legend has it that Japan was settled by Xu Fu, a Chinese explorer, and his ship's crew around 200 BC.

vt. vi. 解決（爭論、分歧）

- Vincent helped settle the argument between his parents by offering a third suggestion.
- Lawyers often advise their clients to settle out of court because this is relatively quick and easy compared to a trial.

settlement

[ˈsetlmənt]

n. [C]（解決紛爭的）協議

- The workers reached a settlement with their employer that guaranteed them an annual pay raise.

settler

[ˈsetlə]

n. [C] 移民；殖民者

- The American Indian Wars is the name for a series of conflicts between Native Americans and European settlers in North America.

8. penetrate

[ˈpenəˌtret]

▶ vt. vi. 穿過；進入 to travel through or into something else, usually by force

- As the nail penetrated the old pipe, water sprayed out onto the carpenter's face.
- Wearing a mask can help stop air pollution from penetrating into your lungs and causing breathing problems.

▶ vt. 滲透 (某組織)

- The reporter successfully penetrated the political club and exposed their dark secrets, winning a Pulitzer Prize.

9. core

[kɔr]

▶ n. [C] (物體的) 中心部分；果核 the middle section of an object or a fruit that contains seeds

- While most people throw away the apple core, some like to eat it.

▶ n. [C] 核心；最重要的部分

- At the core of this politician's policies is a deep desire for justice and equality.

core

[kɔr]

▶ adj. 核心的；最重要的

- One of the core beliefs of Christianity is that there is only one God.

10. considerably

[kənˈsɪdərəbli]

▶ adv. 相當大 (或多) 地；非常 by a large amount or to a great degree

- Marie's baby has grown considerably since we last saw her three months ago!

considerable

[kənˈsɪdərəbəl]

▶ adj. 相當大 (或多、重要) 的

- The tiger's considerable size and strength impressed and frightened the zoo visitors.

11. majestic

[məˈdʒestɪk]

▶ adj. 雄偉的；壯觀的 exhibiting admirable scale or beauty

- Majestic Edinburgh Castle sits atop a hill at one end of the city's main street.

12. dense

[dens]

▶ adj. 密集的；稠密的 containing many things or people to the point where not much space remains available

- With around 9,600 people per square kilometer, Taipei has a large, dense population.

▶ adj. 濃的；濃重的

- There was such dense fog on the mountain that the hikers could barely see their group leader just a few meters in front of them.

density

[ˈdensəti]

▶ n. [U] 密度；濃度

- The density of water changes with the temperature, or if other substances are added to it.

13. soar

[sor]

▶ vi. 高聳；聳立 to maintain a great height

- Tokyo Tower, which soars above the city, visible even from quite far away, is one of the tallest buildings in Japan.

▶ vi. 急升；猛增

- The company's stock soared to new heights on Monday, prompting many people to invest in it.

14. valley

[ˈvæli]

▶ n. [C] 山谷；溪谷 an area of low land, often featuring a river, between mountains

- The air was so clear that even from down in the valley, the climbers could see the peaks of the mountains that surrounded them.

15. stream

[strim]

▶ n. [C] 溪；小河 a narrow body of water smaller than a river

- There are plenty of fish swimming in the small streams running through this forest.

▶ n. [C] (液、氣) 流

- The sudden downpour caused a heavy stream of rainwater to flood the street, making walking difficult.

stream

[strim]

▶ vi. 流(動)；流出

- When the scientist dropped the gas cylinder, gas streamed out and began to fill the room.

16. stark

[stark]

▶ adj. (區別) 明顯的；鮮明的 obvious, usually indicating a difference

- Dan noticed a stark difference between his health before and after taking the medicine his doctor gave him.

▶ adj. 簡陋的；毫無裝飾的

- The man lives in a stark room with only a bed and a closet.

17. lively

[ˈlɑːvli]

▶ adj. 活躍的；精力充沛的 full of life, energy, or activity

- On St. Patrick's Day, the streets of Ireland's cities become lively with parades and other celebrations.

▶ adj. 熱烈的；充滿趣味的

- The professor's question about the meaning of life prompted a lively discussion among his students, who debated the topic for the rest of the class.

18. cattle

[ˈkætl]

▶ n. pl. 牛 large animals, usually cows and bulls, kept on a farm for the production of meat and milk

- While the farmer was leading a herd of cattle across the road, a traffic jam began to form.

19. agricultural

[ˌægrɪˈkʌltʃərəl]

▶ adj. 農業的 relating to farming

- Thanks to its many large farmers' markets, this town has a lively agricultural trade.

20. exceed

[ɪkˈsiːd]

▶ vt. 超過 to go beyond something that has been specified, such as a number

- Billy's parents had expected him to obtain a B on his science exam; however, he exceeded their expectations by getting an A.

▶ vt. 超過 (法律、命令等的) 限制

- After being caught exceeding the speed limit on three separate occasions, Mark was forced to attend a safe driving workshop.

21. gorgeous

[ˈɡɔrdʒəs]

▶ adj. 絢麗的；美麗的 extremely beautiful or attractive

- Jane bought a new dress featuring a gorgeous pattern of sky-blue and orange diamonds.

▶ adj. 極好的；很棒的

- The wedding menu also featured three gorgeous buffet tables full of a variety of desserts.

22. plain

[pleɪn]

▶ n. [C] 平原 an area of land characterized by being large and flat and having few or no trees

- Because of the flatness of the coastal plain, one can see far inland from the sea there.

plain

[pleɪn]

▶ adj. 清楚的；明顯的

- It is plain to see why Lionel Messi is so good at soccer; he practices for hours every day.

23. lush

[lʌʃ]

▶ adj. 茂盛的；草木繁盛的 of vegetation, growing thickly in a manner that suggests great strength and health

- This island's lush vegetation is a result of its large amount of annual rainfall.

▶ adj. 優美的；華麗的

- The lush sounds coming from the orchestra delighted the audience and led to an enthusiastic round of applause.

24. bustling

[ˈbʌslɪŋ]

▶ adj. 繁忙的；熙熙攘攘的 very busy or active, usually referring to many people

- On Saturday evenings in summer, the town center is bustling with activity, as people shop and visit bars and restaurants.

bustle

[ˈbʌsl]

▶ vi. 忙碌

- With so much to do that day, the teacher bustled around, from his classroom to the teachers' room and the playground.

25. mighty

[ˈmaɪti]

▶ adj. 巨大的；非凡的 of impressively large size

- The mighty oak towered above the other trees in the forest, several meters taller and much wider.

▶ adj. 強而有力的

- There are many big, strong land mammals, but none can match the mighty elephant for strength.

26. mountainous

[ˈmaʊntɪnəs]

▶ adj. 多山的 having a lot of mountains

- This is a highly mountainous region with a lot of wild animals, so few people live here.

Idioms and Phrases

1. take a look at 檢視；瞧一瞧 to turn one's attention to something

- Frank decided to take a look at the project after clearing his inbox of the morning's e-mails.

2. be worlds apart 有天壤之別；截然不同 to be extremely different or opposed

- The two brothers are worlds apart in terms of their interests; one enjoys listening to music and playing the guitar, while the other enjoys reading science textbooks.

3. make up 形成；構成 to form something as a whole

- A soccer team is made up of ten outfield players and one goalkeeper.

4. by contrast 相比之下 indicating a difference between two things

- Singapore is one of the smallest countries in the world. Russia, by contrast, is the largest one.

5. from far and wide 從四處；從各處 from many different places covering a long distance or large area

- Because the bride and groom are from different countries, their families will have to travel from far and wide to attend the wedding.

6. pay a visit to 拜訪；參觀 to go somewhere to visit someone or see something

- On my way home, I paid a visit to my grandma to see how she was adjusting to life in her new house.

Words for Recognition

1. Formosa [fɔr`mosə] n. 福爾摩沙
Ilha Formosa [`iljə fɔr`mosə] (葡語) 美麗之島
2. Paraguay River [`pærə,gwe `rivə; `pærə,gwai `rivə] n. 巴拉圭河
3. Argentina [ˌɑrdʒən`tinə] n. 阿根廷
4. namesake [ˈnemsek] n. [C] 同名的人 (或物)
5. Portuguese [ˈportʃə,giz] adj. 葡萄牙人的; 葡萄牙的
6. South America [ˌsauθ ə`merikə] n. 南美洲
7. equator [i`kwetə] n. sing. (usu. the equator) 赤道
8. antipodal [æn`tipəd] adj. 對蹠的 (地理上位於對稱方向的)
9. grassland [ˈgræslænd] n. [U] 草地
10. marshland [ˈmɑ:ʃlənd] n. [U] 沼澤地
11. Asian [ˈeɪʒən] adj. 亞洲的
12. ranching [ˈræntʃɪŋ] n. [U] 牧場經營; 農場經營

Sentence Pattern

L Hotel

T Hotel

Hey, Vic. Check out these hotel rooms! They both look amazing.

True, both rooms look comfy and chic.

Yeah, but this room is half the price of that one.

What are you waiting for? Book it now!

在此語境中，為表達某間飯店房間的價格是另一間價格的一半，因此使用表示倍數的句型。

S + V + half/twice/two times/three times/many times/... + the N of...

此句型用來表示兩者的倍數關係，以數據來呈現兩者的差異。常見的比較項目有：height（高度）、length（長度）、width（寬度）、weight（重量）、size（規模／面積）、price（價格）、number（數目，可數）、amount（數量，不可數）等。

- My bedroom is half the size of my living room.
- The sumo player is five times the weight of the little girl.
- Jason's weekly allowance is three times the amount of Mickey's.

Examples

1. Most of Argentina's Formosa, which is two times the size of Taiwan, is fairly flat and covered with trees, grassland, or marshland. (line 41)
2. The area's total number of cattle exceeds 1.5 million, which is more than three times the number of people living there! (line 59)

Practice

The following is a table that shows the differences between two mysterious kingdoms—the Kingdom of Giants and the Kingdom of Dwarfs. Read carefully the information provided and complete the conversation using the above pattern. The first one has been done for you.

	Kingdom of Giants	Kingdom of Dwarfs
Area (km ²)	900,000	300,000
Population (people)	1,200,000	6,000,000
Average height of the people (cm)	490	70
Average weight of the people (kg)	600	30
Age of the king	60	120
Number of the king's children	2	12

Mr. Stone: Here's a table that shows the differences between the Kingdom of Giants and the Kingdom of Dwarfs. Let's take a look at their areas. Which one is bigger?

Jessie: Obviously, it's the Kingdom of Giants. It's ¹ three times the size of the Kingdom of Dwarfs .

Mr. Stone: Great! It's probably because giants need much more space to live in. How about population? Which one has a larger population?

Phoebe: The Kingdom of Dwarfs. Its population is ² _____ .

Mr. Stone: Well done, Phoebe. Indeed, there are far more dwarfs than giants. Now, let's move on to the height of the people in these two kingdoms. Well, without any doubt, giants are much taller.

Kevin: I know, I know. Giants are ³ _____
_____.

Mr. Stone: Good job, Kevin. Giants are much taller and much heavier as well.

Joyce: Giants are super heavy! They are ⁴ _____
_____.

Mr. Stone: Excellent! You're a walking calculator, aren't you? Next, let's look at their kings. Who is older?

Amy: The king of the Kingdom of Dwarfs! He's twice ⁵ _____
_____.

I can't believe anyone could live to such a ripe old age.

Mr. Stone: Brilliant, Amy. Last, both kings have more than one child. Which one has more children?

Johnny: The king of the Kingdom of Dwarfs! He has ⁶ _____ that the king of the Kingdom of Giants does.
_____.

Mr. Stone: Indeed! Well, you guys have done a great job! Now let's move on to....

	Kingdom of Giants	Kingdom of Dwarfs
Area (km ²)	900,000	300,000
Population (people)	1,200,000	6,000,000
Average height of the people (cm)	490	70
Average weight of the people (kg)	600	30
Age of the king	60	120
Number of the king's children	2	12

Language Highlight

Superordinate-Subordinate Relation (上下位關係)

Part-Whole Relation (整體局部關係)

在篇章中，可透過詞彙的語意關聯性，來維持主題連貫，並增添敘述的變化性。常見的手法有：

1. 上下位關係：上位詞通常代表某種主題或概念，下位詞則為其分類下的實例。（例如：color—blue）
2. 整體局部關係：整體通常代表單一事物，局部則為此事物中的一部分。（例如：body—leg）

You may not realize this, but spoken language only accounts for about 7% of human communication. In contrast, we do about 55% of our “talking” with our bodies. Understanding people’s body language is an important ability on which we all rely to interact with one another.

Being able to read body language well is helpful in determining whether or not someone is telling the truth. When people are lying, they exhibit fewer arm and hand gestures. Moreover, liars often can’t help but touch or scratch their face, neck, or behind their ears. Whether people are telling falsehoods or not can also be detected by observing how their eyes move as they speak. When people are lying, their eyes tend to drift toward the right.

Example

Despite these two special links, the two Formosas are, in many ways, still worlds apart. Their natural landscapes, for a start, differ considerably. Two thirds of Taiwan’s 36,000 square kilometers are made up of majestic mountains covered in dense forest, some of which soar thousands of meters above sea level. Furthermore, the island’s mountains, valleys, rivers, and reefs are home to hundreds of unique species found only in Taiwan. By contrast, most of Argentina’s Formosa, which is two times the size of Taiwan, is fairly flat and covered with trees, grassland, or marshland. Its eastern region receives more rain than its other parts and also has more forests and streams.
(paragraph 4, line 32)

Practice

Read the following conversation carefully and write down the appropriate words or phrases that have a close relationship with the main subject.

Josephine: Hey, Miranda! I haven't seen you for a long time. How are you doing?

Miranda: I'm great, thanks! And you? What have you been busy with recently?

Josephine: Well, I am having my apartment redecorated. So I am now shopping around for some furniture.

Miranda: Interesting! Would you mind if I help you choose?

Josephine: Not at all. I think it's always good to get a second opinion.

Miranda: What do you have in mind first?

Josephine: I'm thinking about getting ¹ _____ (a sofa set / an air conditioner / a TV cabinet / a vacuum cleaner) for my living room, and ² _____ (a potted plant / an armchair / a fan / an end table) by the window.

Miranda: What color do you prefer?

Josephine: ³ _____, I guess. I have already had the wall painted white, which goes pretty much with any other color.

Miranda: All right, what about the kitchen area? Do you have any piece of furniture in mind?

Josephine: Hmm...I don't cook a lot and most appliances are built-in, so maybe I'll just get ⁴ _____ (a dishwasher / an electric blanket / some stools / a cupboard). The only thing I haven't decided yet is the color.

Miranda: I'll suggest you choose something ⁵ _____. It is durable and easy to clean.

Josephine: That sounds good to me!

Miranda: Then let's go shopping!

Transition Signals: Compare & Contrast

在篇章中，為了讓訊息間的關係更加清楚，會使用轉承詞（transition signals），標示句與句或段落與段落間的關聯。如此一來，篇章的組織架構更有條理，且邏輯更為緊密。比較與對比（compare and contrast）的文章，內容主要是呈現兩者的異同。

1. 常用於比較（compare），標示兩者共同點的轉承詞如下：

Clause connectors	✦ and..., too ✦ and so...
Examples	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Sam loves reading, and his twin brother does, too.• Laura chose English as her major, and so did her best friend.
Sentence connectors	✦ similarly ✦ likewise ✦ in the same way
Example	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Tony grew up overseas. Similarly, his wife spent her childhood abroad in the UK.
Prepositional connectors	✦ (Just) like...
Example	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Just like my grandmother, my father also believes that the number four brings bad luck.
Others	<ul style="list-style-type: none">✦ both A and B ✦ A be the same as B✦ A be similar to B ✦ A and B be/look alike✦ A and B have...in common✦ A and B share certain/several/many...similarities
Examples	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Both humans and chimpanzees know how to use tools.• Jenny and Jessie look remarkably alike.• Kevin and David have several qualities in common.

2. 常用於對比 (contrast) , 標示兩者差異的轉承詞如下 :

Clause connectors	✦ but ✦ while ✦ whereas
Example	• While/Whereas Sean is confident and communicative*, Claire is shy and quiet.
Sentence connectors	✦ however ✦ by/in contrast ✦ by/in comparison ✦ on the other hand
Example	• American education values individual differences. By contrast , Japanese schools emphasize discipline and order.
Prepositional connectors	✦ unlike ✦ in contrast to/with
Example	• In contrast to women, men are more reluctant to seek help.
Others	✦ A differ from B ✦ A and B differ (greatly/significantly) ✦ A be different from B ✦ there is a contrast/difference between A and B
Examples	• College classrooms differ greatly from those in high schools. • There is a striking difference between Amy and her twin sister.

Examples

1. Similarly, Formosa was the European name given to an area of land discovered in South America by Spanish explorers around the same time. (line 12)
2. Their natural landscapes, for a start, differ considerably. (line 34)
3. By contrast, most of Argentina's Formosa, which is two times the size of Taiwan, is fairly flat and covered with trees, grassland, or marshland. (line 41)
4. There is, in addition, a stark contrast between their economies. (line 46)

Practice

Read the following passage that compares and contrasts leopards and cheetahs.

Leopards and cheetahs look very much alike, so they are often mistaken for each other. They indeed share a number of remarkably similar characteristics. The most obvious feature that makes them look alike is their yellow fur with black spots. In addition, both of them are carnivores. They eat practically the same prey*, like rabbits, zebras, and deer. Also, there is one feature they have in common—leopards and cheetahs are endothermal, which means that they can control their body temperature.

Although leopards and cheetahs look rather similar at first glance, they are actually different in a good many ways. While cheetahs have small round spots, leopards have large black spots with light brown fur in the middle. Another striking difference is that cheetahs have two black tear lines on their face that run from the inside corners of their eyes to the mouth, but leopards have no black lines on their face. In addition, cheetahs hunt during the day, whereas leopards hunt during the night. Unlike leopards, which are great swimmers and climbers, cheetahs don't like water, nor do they climb trees. One more interesting difference between the two big cats is their ability to roar. Surprisingly, cheetahs cannot roar, but they meow like a housecat instead. Leopards, on the other hand, can make a loud roar like lions and tigers.

1. Look at the pictures. Which one is a leopard? Which one is a cheetah?

2. Reread the passage carefully and fill in the following charts.

Paragraph 1

Topic sentence:

They indeed share a number of remarkably similar characteristics.

Similarities	Transition signals
(1) _____	alike
(2) _____	both
prey they eat	(3) _____
Endothermal	(4) _____

Paragraph 2

Topic sentence:

Although leopards and cheetahs look rather similar at first glance, they are actually different in a good many ways.

	Differences		Transition signals
	Cheetahs	Leopards
small round spots	large black spots with light brown fur in the middle	(1) _____ _____
(2) _____ _____	no black line	A. striking difference B. (3) _____ _____
hunt during the day	hunt during the night	(4) _____ _____
cannot swim or climb trees	great swimmers and climbers	(5) _____ _____
meow	(6) _____ _____	A. interesting difference B. (7) _____ _____

L

Listening Strategy

Strategy Review

Note-Taking

When you listen to a lecture, sometimes one good way to take notes is through graphic organizers. Besides jotting down the key information, graphic organizers can help keep the information organized, thus making it easier for you to focus, understand, and remember what you hear.

Listening for Differences

When speakers describe how things are different, they usually use some transition signals like however, by contrast, unlike, while, whereas, and so on. So, when you listen for a contrast, check for these signals, and they will guide you to grasp the key information.

Listening Comprehension

Read through the text, chart, and questions. Then, listen to the recording. Fill in the blanks in the chart and choose the most appropriate answer for each question.

	Japan	Taiwan
Buying food on the street	✓ _____ _____	✓ _____ _____
Greeting	✓ More formal ✓ _____ when first meeting others	✓ Causal ✓ _____ or _____
Removing shoes	✓ _____ ✓ _____	✓ Entering someone's home

- _____ 1. (A) To persuade the audience.
 (B) To inform the audience.
 (C) To inspire the audience.
 (D) To entertain the audience.
- _____ 2. (A) A professor.
 (B) A travel planner.
 (C) A tour guide.
 (D) A businessperson.
- _____ 3. (A) Walking through the night market.
 (B) Eating on the spot after buying food.
 (C) Buying food in the night market.
 (D) Eating and walking at the same time.

_____ 4. (A)

(B)

(C)

(D)

