

Reflection after teaching “The Sun and The Moon”

Using the article, “The Sun and The Moon” is quite fun because a similar story shows up in Taiwan. When telling the story, students quickly thought of the Taiwan Sun Moon Lake story! When they read the different version of “The Sun and The Moon,” they were quite happy. At the ending of this class, they even tried to make up a new version of “The Sun and The Moon.” Although they didn’t really create a new one, they tried their best and made this class more interesting than I expected! Remember to ask students to create a new version after teaching this article, and you’ll find how creative and interesting it will be.
